

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

OUR first acknowledgments are to the following institutions and private owners who have kindly permitted us to print manuscripts in their possession: the British Museum; Mrs Colin Davy, Heckfield Place, Basingstoke, Hants; the R. G. Shaw Library-Theatre Collection, Harvard College Library; the Roberts Collection, Haverford College Library; Mr and Mrs Donald Hyde, Somerville, New Jersey; the late Earl of Ilchester; Sir John Murray; the Trustees of the Newcastle Estates and Mr A. N. Newman; the Newport Public Library, Newport, Monmouth; the Henry W. and Albert A. Berg Collection, New York Public Library; the Nottingham University Library; the Hon. Mrs Clive Pearson, Parham Park, Sussex; the Carl H. Pforzheimer Library of New York; the Society of Antiquaries; the Earl Stanhope; the late Dr Roderick Terry; the Forster Collection, Victoria and Albert Museum; and the Earl Waldegrave.

The following members of the Advisory Committee have very kindly read the proofs of this volume: the late Sir Lewis Namier and Messrs Erskine, Hazen, Hilles, Ketton-Cremer, Pottle, and Sedgwick, all of whom made many valuable suggestions and additions and helped us to solve several complicated problems. The proofs were also read by Dr Warren H. Smith in New Haven who has assisted at every stage in the preparation of the volume. The late Charles H. Bennett gave much counsel and assistance in the early stages of preparing the Fox correspondence.

The annotation has been verified by Miss Emma H. E. Stephenson and Mr Joseph W. Reed Jr; Mr Jeffrey L. Sammons of the Yale Graduate School has assisted with the preparation of the texts and index. As usual we have received much assistance from Mr A. J. Watson, formerly of the British Museum, and from Miss Julia McCarthy at Farmington. The staff of the Yale Library have continued to render invaluable assistance as have
