

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

OUR first acknowledgment is to the Duke of Manchester who, as Lord Mandeville, kindly permitted me to have photostats made of Walpole's letters to Montagu at Kimbolton, and of Montagu's letters to Walpole which have been deposited at the Public Record Office. We are also indebted to Sir Wathen A. Waller, Bt, for permission to make photostats of Montagu's letters to Walpole of 28 July 1745 and 25 Sept. 1749 and Walpole's letter of 30 May 1763.

Mr R. W. Chapman has read much of the proof and all of it has been read by Miss E. G. Withycombe, Mr R. W. Ketton-Cremer, Professor L. B. Namier, Professor F. A. Pottle, and Mr Leonard Whibley. They have saved us from errors and have added many helpful notes which would not otherwise have been given. I have kept their corrected proofs so that any scholars of the future who may be interested in the making of this edition can see precisely what and how great has been their contribution. We are under particular obligations to Miss Rose Phelps whose class at the University of Illinois Library School solved many of our problems for us and to the editors of Notes and Queries who generously printed 186 of our queries, a substantial part of which were answered by their readers. Through the kind offices of Mr Henry M. Hake, Director of the National Portrait Gallery, permission was obtained from the Duke of Buccleuch to reproduce Van Loo's portrait of George Montagu.

Dr Warren Hunting Smith has contributed the section 'Bibliography and Method' and, with the assistance of Mrs Richard G. Gettell, spent a year on the index. Dr Smith and Dr Monroe C. Beardsley performed the laborious task of checking all the references. Dr Smith and Mr William R. Wray have re-checked the text. Dr Smith's contribution has been so important that Mr Brown and I wanted to include his name on the title-page, but his modesty prevented it. Mrs Nicholas Moseley has kindly read the proofs of the index and so has continued her invaluable serv-
